Stormwater control remains a hot-button issue in suburban villages and cities—despite major advancements over the last 20 years. Join us for a discussion-oriented workshop with a panel of experts who will discuss both the innovations they've employed and the best-practices that can bring success to your community. The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. - noon at DePaul University, 243 S. Wabash; Suite 9000. The fee is $45 per workshop, which includes continental breakfast; any three registrations for $115.
